About the product and process:

- a % of the price of these pants are donated to combating malaria in Africa
- all of merchandise is produced and manufactured locally
- handcrafters are used and aim at uplifting and up skilling people in South Africa.
- this way to problems are addressed i.e. combating malaria and creating skills.

The Xhosa were the first to adopt the “isishweshwe” fabric from German settlers in the early 1840’s. Fast forward to 1982 when Da Gama Textiles in East London purchased the sole rights to own and print the original ‘Shweshwe’ pattern, authenticated as it is by a back stamp on the fabric. Working closely in conjunction with the good folk at Da Gama Textiles to develop an all-over print that retains the style and flavor of ‘Shweshwe’.. The result is a range of products that is at once iconic and unique, original and stylish.
